

16.09.2015 by David Seren

The NEXUS-concept proves successful

The 2014/15 X-C season has shown that the new paraglider concept used for the NEXUS lives up to its promises. Didi Siglbauer was able to secure victory in the sport class in the DHV-XC, as well as top place in the overall rankings.

His SWING teammates Tim Huber and Torsten Hahne hold third and fourth places respectively in the sport class and third and fifth places overall, thus underlining the glider's performance capability. The high level of flight comfort, outstanding stability and ease with which this glider is managed meant that these pilots and indeed all NEXUS pilots were able to concentrate fully on their flight routes and tactics.

SWING warmly congratulates them on these great performances!